

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A display apparatus (1) for generating a stereoscopic image by superimposing a plurality of images at a predetermined interval from each other on the view line of the viewer, the apparatus comprising: a first display
5 unit (11) having a plurality of emission areas (11-1) for emitting a light, disposed in a discrete manner in a plane of a display screen and a plurality of transmission areas (11-2) for transmitting a light, disposed in a discrete manner in the plane of the display screen except for areas occupied by said plurality of emission areas; and a second display unit (12) disposed behind the 10 first display unit as seen from the viewer.